A CADEMY OF MUSIC.—TUESDAY, Feb. 2, The Ladice of the WOMAN'S PROTECTIVE EMIGRA-TION SOCIETY have great pleasure in laying before the public the following correspondence:

TION SOCIETY have great pleasure in laying before the public the following correspondence:

NEW-YORK, Dec. 22, 1657.

To the Hor. Edward Everett-Sir: The fame of your Address in aid of the "Provident Association," at Bosken, has reached the women of New-York; and observing, with picture, that you are to visit our city on the Elst of January, to repair your discourse on the "Character of Washington," we—a self-constituted Committee of Ladies—wenture to ask you to double the obligations of our community, by repeating during your stay, your late Charity Address, for the benefit of a new and universally approved charity, called into existence by the distress of the present season—the "Woman's Protective Emigration Society," the Constitution of which we transmit you. Having followed with admiration your extraordinary career of public speech in behalf of the purchase of Mt. Vernon, by the ladies of Virginia, and bestowed a warmer feeling upon the patriotism which has an imated these labors—labors which, estimated by their effects, whether in money, nationality of delight, will have a high historic appreciation—we have empoyed a fresh surprise in learning that you were tasking your heart and lips with new offices of heuronlence. If your nailve city, celebrated for its numerous and venerable charities, as well as for the general thrift and virtue which narrows the need of these, is compelled by the extraordinary wants of its poor, to draw upon your powers of awakening the public attention, what might be expected of New-York, the gateway of nations and the aims-house of both lemispheres, but that the urgancy of its needfiles, at a season like this, would banish every scruple in begging your eloquent tongue to plead the cause of the affering here?

rupe in deading you require the property of th and more imperiled possession—the lives and the virtue of a suffering sisters—the exposed and beneless women of this city—made destitute by want of work, and desperate by urgent necessities! Should you be able to grant our prayer, we beginned to the propose TUESDAY EVENING, of 2d February, and the ACAD-EMY of MUSIC, as the time and place of your address.

Translated from the Original Italian By Luist Monti of Harvard University. 12mo. Elegantly bound in cloth; 2 vols in one. With a Steel Engraving, after the celebrated Portrait by Guid Price 61 25.

From Morris & Willia's Home Journal. "We learn that Sig. Loigi Monti of Harvard College has trans-lated Guerrazzi's famous Historical Novel of Beatrace Cencr and that it is now in course of 'publication. There will un doubtedly be a great desire felt to see this volume. Guerrazzi i probably the most distinguished of living (Italian) authors, and we are glad to know that the modern literature of Italy—wit which we are but little acquainted—will be inaugurated by a brilliant a specimen of novel-writing as this is. The life o Beatrice has been generally, indeed we may say entirely, misun completed after careful labor, what is probably the travels as far as Italy, remember as one of the loveliest specimens of Art the ever-admired and copied Portrait of Beatrice by Guido, now in the Gallery of the Barberini Palace."

fortunate shade of Beatrice:

"Inasmuch as I have been able to comprehend thee, implor for me sufficient power to narrate worthily thy history to these dear Italian maidens, who love thee as a sister just departed though the shadow of two centuries and a half is spread over thy sepulchre. Verily thine is a history of sad crimes; but the maidens of my country will read it. It will pierce their gentle souls like a sword; but they will read it. When the youth who they love is approaching, they will hasten, blushing, to hide it; but they will read it, and will offer thee the only gift that can be given to the betrayed-tears."

Mason Brothers having announced a work which they entitle The Beatrice Cenci," we suppose that other publishers will adopt this style, and that advertisements will soon be seen of "The Quentin Durward," "The David Copperfield," "The John Halifax," &c. In the translation which we publish this day of Guerrazzi's famous novel of BEATRICE CENCI we omit the superfluous article, through regard for the feelings of the lat-RUDD & CARLETON. lamented Lindley Murray.

HISTORICAL REFLECTION.

When Beatrice Cenci died on the scaffold, she never though that sie would in the nineteenth century be murdered by th Masons. She is, however, to be found still alive in Guerrazzi novel published this day by RUDD & CARLETON.

A MORAL RESERVATION.

Mason Brothers announce in their astonishing advertisement of The Beatrice Cenci," that the profits are "reserved" for the benefit of the author. If we were the author, we would rather not have the profite "reserved." But as we are not the author of BEATRICE CENCI, we have determined to be the next best thingthe publishers—and our edition, sanctioned by Harvard College, and translated by Monti, is issued this day.

DOCTOR CHARLES MACKAY, in his letters to The London Illustrated News, calls Broadway "The Broadway." Mason Brothers, not to be outdone, call Bestrice Cenci ", The Bestrice Cenci," which work, according to heir advertisement, is an historical novel by a Hungarian named "Gourrezai." Now, although we do not publish six editions of Webster's Dictionary, we know enough of the English language not to call this heroine " The Beatrice Cenci," or to transform poor Guerrazzi into a Hungarian. NEW LAW BOOK.—BISHOP on CRIMINAL LAW, VOL. II. THIS DAY published by LITTLE, BROWN & Co., No. 112 Washington-st., Borton. COMMENTARIES ON THE CRIMINAL LAW. By JOEL PRENTISS BISHOP, esq. ntaining the Law of Specific Offenes, alphabetically arranged. Svo. $5 50.

NOTICES OF VOL. I.

NOTICES OF VOL. I.

"I have made a general examination of Mr. Bishep's new book on Crhainal Law, and think it a work of much interest and much value. Like his treatise on the Law of Marriage and Divorce, it is full of learning and acuteceas, ample and trustworthy in its situations of authorities, and skillful and fortunate in its discernment and arrangement of the principles which the authorities establish or limit.

"It is a law book written with thought, care, ingenuity and extractinese; speculative and suggestive, yet safe and eminently useful. The reader finds in it the law as it is and the decisions which prove it; but he finds also that it is a science; be is quickened to think for himself. Instead of committing it to memory, his mind is stimulated to reason, to doubt, to dictinguish, to discover, to define, and is invigorated and strengthened by this discipline. I do not know any recent work which more happily avoide the extreme of assuming to codify or originate law, on the case hand, and that of hudding together—without method, without philosophy, and without style—a miscellany of cases and sayings on the other.

"As an elementary work, I consider it one of high merit, the obvious result of immense labor, a good power of analysis, and one evincing great accuracy and fullness of statement of elementary principles, arranged in a clear and methodical order."

"The work of Bishop is the first scientific work of America on Criminal Law; but it is equally valuable and worthy of study to the lawyers of every country.

"The Commentaries on Griminal Law by Mr. Bishop are really just, and worthy to be adopted by all scientific men. I find on every page of his work profundity of research unified with perspiculty of explanation, and that practical sense so peculiar to American and English jurists."

"The Commentaries on Criminal Law Manazine and Review.

"We look upon this treatise as a valuable addition to our legal volume the principles of this branch of law have been treated on a broad and comprehensive plan."

master, uniting in harmonious proportion principle and adjunication."

His Commentaries on the Criminal Law grill greatly enhance his reputation and illustrate his name. He must hencefort be regarded as one of the first of legal authors in this or any other country. Combining with the most laborious and patient research a philosophical mind, an acute analysis, an untimuted power of condensation, a clear statement of principles, and a fresh and perspicnous style, he has made a book of extraordinary merit, evineing extraordinary mental ability, and destined to hold in legal bibliography an extraordinary rank." [St. Louis Republican.

"The student of the law, the educated but suprofessional magistrate, and the statestant, seeking great leading principies, rather then details, have long needed a philosophical, elementary work on the Criminal Law. Such a work Mr. Bishop has furtished—a work full of learning, a profound, original and admirable commentary, which is destined to be an useful to the student as to the veteran practitioners in our Criminal Courts."

"This Spring has one great advantage—the cushion does not rest upon it, and, consequently, there is no injury done by wear in the seat. It is of great strength, and yet as easy and clastic in its motion as if composed of India-rubber. For office chairs, piano stools, and store seats, it is one of the very best inventions which could be devised, and will, no doubt, be generally used, for its sonomy is equal to its usefulness."
